PROBERS WORKING ON CHARGE

Full Investigation of Alleged Attempted Bribery in Oklahoma

FEEES IN THE MILLIONS

Would Have Been Paid According to Senator Gore Had Contracts Been Approved.

Washington, June 27.—The two investigating committees, one appointed in the senate, the other in the House of Representatives, as a result of Senator Gore's charges in the senate, Friday, of attempted bribery in connection with Indian contracts in Oklahoma, are already at work. There will be a meeting here today of the senate committee, of which Senator Jones, of Washington, was named chairman.

The House committee, it is announced, will meet at a date not yet fixed in Oklahoma City, and while there will inquire carefully into the question of misconduct on the part of attorneys in reference to contracts with Indians.

Representative Burke, of South Dakota, who was appointed by Speaker Cannon chairman of the special investigation committee, is also chairman of the Indian affairs committee, which has given hearings on the question of disposing of the surplus lands of the five civilized tribes in Oklahoma. Mr. Burke is of the opinion that a visit to other tribes will result in much valuable information being brought out.

Senator Gore charged that corruption was involved in an attempt to induce the government to approve contracts that J. E. McMurray had procured with about 10,000 Choctaws and Chickasaws. It was alleged that the execution of the contracts would yield McMurray and his associates a fee ranging somewhere between $3,000,000 and $16,000,000. McGuire was offended by criticism of himself implied by a part of the Gore statements.

Plans have not yet been formulated by a senate committee of five commissioned to investigate Gore's charges of attempted bribery.

Senator Jones, chairman of the committee, is inclined to the belief that the investigation will be postponed until the next session.

CHILD WANDERED AWAY FROM HOME

Considerable excitement was created in the North End, in the vicinity of Beech street, Monday morning by the report that the little three-year-old daughter of Mr. Frank Rice had wandered away from her home and was lost. The entire neighborhood turned out and made a thorough search for the little one, but to no avail. Finally some one telephoned Probation Officer James Sheridan that the child had been taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Miller, 182 Hudson avenue. Mr. Sheridan hurried to the home of Mr. Miller, who found that the child's grandmother, who had also been notified, had taken the child home.

GARFIELD PRAISES INSURGENTS IN CONGRESS AFTER RETURNING FROM VISIT WITH COL. ROOSEVELT

Cleveland, June 27.—Submitting to an interview upon his return from a visit to Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, the former secretary of the interior, James R. Garfield, praised the insurgents in Congress. "The country," he said, "owes a debt of gratitude to such men as Cummings, Doherty, Lefollette, Beveridge and those with them who compelled the amendment of the original railroad rate bill and who inserted into it clauses that are a direct benefit to the people. The cause of self government, of government for all rather than for a few special interest shags undoubtedly been advanced during this session of congress, and the insurgents, so called in both senate and house, are the ones to whom all the credit belongs. These men have been and still are Republicans, they cannot be driven out of the party because they stand and fight for true representative government."

REINHART RESIGNS FROM CENTENNIAL COMMISSION

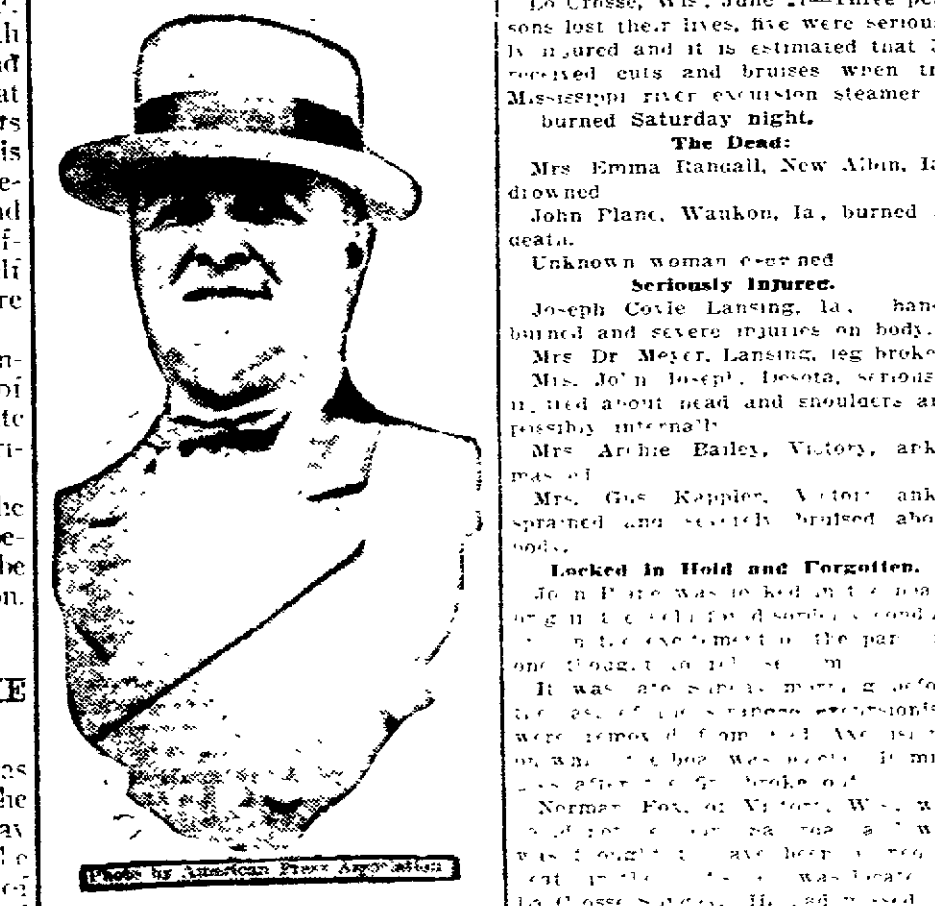

Columbus, O., June 27.—The row that has been on for months in the Perry Centennial commission culminated today in the resignation of W. H. Reinhart of Sandusky, president of the commission. In a letter to Gov. Harmon, Reinhart makes no mention of the troubles within the commission but merely gives stress of private business as his reason for quitting. It was stated at the governor's office that no request for Reinhart's resignation had been made. Webster P. Huntington of Columbus resigned as secretary of the commission several weeks ago. Gov. Harmon on the receipt of Reinhart's resignation appointed General A. J. Warner of Marietta to fill the vacancy and to fill the vacancy caused by Huntington's resignation he appointed Horace A. Chapman of Columbus.

HUGHES MAY RUN AGAIN

Albany, N. Y., June 27.—If Col. Roosevelt can show Gov. Hughes that he can be re-elected governor he will forgo the honor of being a member of the United States supreme court and run again, according to political prophets today.

JEFF WILL FIGHT HIS OWN STYLE

Activity in Training Camps as Day of Contest Draws Near

STATE RANGERS PRESENT

Good Order Will be Preserved at Reno—Johnson Losing Weight.

(By Max Balthasar.)
Jeffries' Training Camp, Moana Springs, Reno, Nev., June 27.—With the "battle of the century" now only seven days away, signs of nervousness are beginning to develop among the men in both the Jeffries and Johnson camps and for the next week the tender hook is expected to get an awful workout.

That Jeff is in fine shape is admitted, but his plan of battle and how to take care of him during the next week are giving the trainers infinite concern.

Every precaution is being taken to preserve order on the afternoon of the fight. Captain Cox, of the state rangers, with six men, arrived last night, and today began laying plans to suppress anything that looks like trouble. Rooting will not be permitted, and any spectators indulging in unseemly remarks will be ejected.

Tom Corbett, official betting commissioner, is expected in a day or two with $150,000 to lay on the fight.

JOHNSON'S CAMP.

(By Tip Wright.)
Johnson's Training Camp, Rick's Resort, Reno, Nev., June 27.—In contrast to the near-indifference shown by Jeffries yesterday in refusing to work when a crowd went to Moana Springs from Reno, the activity in this camp yesterday, and today was almost feverish, despite the broiling hot sun which beat down upon Johnson and his training staff during the work. The negro got out early today despite the heat and did seven miles on the road. He will box and go through his other stunts this afternoon, especially devoting himself to his footwork and doing clinching work and roughing it. Under a broiling sun Johnson ran 8 miles on the road and then played with the medicine ball for an hour, winding up with eight fast rounds of boxing with Kaufman, Mills and Cotton.

In spite of his determination to "speed it up," however, many close observers declare that Johnson, while apparently working hard, is doing his work in a slovenly manner. There was a sort of laziness in the black's work that many commented on and the expected earnestness appeared to be lacking.

The approach of the time for the fight is also apparently having an effect on Johnson just as it has made Jeff's trainers nervous and fidgety. The confident air which the black wore during all his training in San Francisco seems to be disappearing and the job in front of him appears to be getting on his nerves.

Win, Muldoon, the veteran wrestler, who announced publicly Saturday night that both Jeffries and Johnson were in perfect condition, is said to have stated confidentially to a number of friends that he really does not believe Jack's condition is good. At the same time he found Jeffries' condition excellent.

There is vague talk today of another row between Johnson and some of his trainers. The belligerents this time are reported to be Johnson and Sig Hart, the man on whose second the black "beat" George Little.

Both men deny that they have quarreled, but a talk of a serious breach will not go down.

GREEK MINISTER TO WED FAIR WASHINGTON BELLE

Washington, June 27.—Lambros A. Coromilas, Greek minister to the United States, and Miss Anna Ewing Cockrell, daughter of former Senator Cockrell of Missouri, will be married July 6, at Norwich, Conn. Mr. Coromilas is about fifty-five years old and with gray vandyke and bushy hair, is one of the most striking appearances of the diplomatic corps. He is a bachelor and until his arrival here three years ago was considered by his fellow diplomats as a woman hater. Following the marriage, which is to be at the home of the minister's sister, Mrs. Edith F. Gallaudet of Norwich, Ct., and Mrs. Coromilas will sail abroad immediately. Having covered his post in America with distinction, the minister is to be rewarded by a more important place on the other side of the world. The wedding is to be quiet, only the members of the Cockrell family, being present. Miss Cockrell is tall, splendidly figured and might well rank with any of the ancient statues of her prospective husband's native land. When he saw her first he declared, "There is a woman who is more lovely than any Phidias ever carved."

CONGRESSMEN HUSTLING HOME TO PREPARE FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Washington, D. C., June 27.—The headquarters of the Democratic campaign committee will be in Chicago, and a branch office will be kept open here.

The chairman will spend the greater part of his time in Chicago, coming here only occasionally. The office in Washington will be in charge of Representative Finley, of South Carolina, vice chairman of the committee.

It is probable also that a branch office will be opened up in the East later in the campaign, although it is in the West and Middle West that the Democrats expect to make most of the gains, whereby they hope to control the next House.

HARVARD IS FAVORITE.

New London, Conn., June 27.—With only three days on practice left for the annual football game between Harvard and Yale today, at Harvard the favorite is the betting.

The President will get away on Tuesday and after that the bottom may be said to have dropped out of political matters in Washington.

The Republican and Democratic congressional committees have already begun the preliminary work of the campaign, although their active energies will not be apparent for a month or six weeks yet.

Chairman Lloyd, of the Democratic congressional committee, will remain here for several days or a week, getting matters into shape for the most aggressive campaign his party has waged in many years.

For some weeks the committee has maintained a force of clerks getting out material, and immense quantities will be used during the coming months to acquaint the voters with the issues.

Mr. Lloyd is preparing to issue a statement this week concerning the campaign, the issues and what the Democrats expect to accomplish.

IMPORTANT GATHERING THIS WEEK

Roosevelt, Hughes and Others to Meet President Taft.

SUNDAY AT OYSTER BAY

Quiet Reigns Supreme and No Political News is Given Out From Sagamore Hill.

Oyster Bay, June 27.—The embargo which Theodore Roosevelt has placed on political news direct from Sagamore Hill was not lifted today, and in the absence of any visitor who might be connected remotely with politics, there was no new development in the situation which the coming conference with Governor Hughes has created.

The news that Colonel Roosevelt had decided to enter actively into the fall campaign has begotten endless speculation however, from which has arisen one well-defined rumor. There is a persistent buzz of gossip that the most important gathering of recent months is to be held this week at Beverly, Mass., or near by.

No positive confirmatory evidence has been produced, but much weight is placed on three words spoken by Colonel Roosevelt. When asked if he expected to see President Taft at Beverly after his visit to Harvard University, he said:

"I don't know."

His manner showed clearly his unwillingness to discuss the subject, but he did not deny the possibility. Governor Hughes' secretary is quoted as having said the governor would see Roosevelt at Cambridge this week. It is thought possible that President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Hughes may all be together.

Senator Lodge, long spokesman of the Roosevelt administration in the senate, is in his home state, and if Representative Nicholas Longworth, Colonel Roosevelt's son-in-law, is at his Massachusetts summer place, the men most likely to share in such a conference will be at close quarters this week.

Citizen Roosevelt had a day off yesterday, there was not even one visitor at Sagamore Hill. He said that after a week of crowds, cheers, hand-shaking, speechmaking, entertaining and perspiring he had the perfect seclusion for which he was pining.

Bluefields, June 27.—According to dispatches today, William Pittman of Boston, the daring young American captured by Madriz forces during the fighting about Bluefields a month ago, has been found guilty of conspiracy against the government and will be sentenced to at least ten years in prison.

APOLOGY

Must Be Made By Greece Before Night or Turks May Declare War.

Constantinople, June 27.—Unless Greece makes an apology before night and offers indemnity for the recent looting of the Roumanian mail boat at the Ploesti, preparations will be made for an immediate Turkish move against the Greeks. It is believed war is likely.

POSSES AFTER TRAIN ROBBERS

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 27.—Several posses headed by Sheriff Wilson are in pursuit of train robbers who at yesterday held up train No. 27 on the Oregon Short Line railroad at Harrisville, five miles north of Ogden.

After finding no foot in the express cars the three bandits went through the Pullman cars, beating sleeping passengers and taking all valuables in sight. They even jerked ear rings from the ears of several women.

A victory and a defeat were staged by the Moders and Diggers at Wehler park Sunday, when both teams wound up their present stay in Newark with a bargain matchup. Newark took the first game by the score of 3 to 2, and this same score defeated them in the second event, although they made a strong bid to win after losing the affair in the third inning.

Some snappy ball was played and some of the frayed stuff also bobbed up in the second game to rob it of its interest to the Newark fans. There was a good crowd present in spite of the terrible exhibition of the Moders Saturday, but the bugs present received their money's worth during the afternoon.

Both squads started strong in the first contest and it was one of those undecided games until the last Digger was down in the ninth. Then the fans rested until the second melee was started by Mason, who, after working a short time, became sick and had to retire. Fitcher Baxter of the Diggers replaced him.

Kendall started things in game No. 1 with a hit and stopped at Hummell's station when Meyers bunted. Riehl hit a short two bagger and the ball, relayed from Colligan stopped him at the plate. A moment later Riehl was caught off second by Reilly's peg to Hummell. There was nothing doing until the third, when the Moders made their first count.

Conley was rapped, trying to get out of a wild pitch and trotted to first. In trying to sacrifice him Hanna skied out to Reilly. Then Hollingsworth and Conley went to third. Kendall was safe on the choice that killed Hollingsworth, but Conley scored on the play. Kendall annexing second sack. Meyers was hit, Riehl singled, but Clickinger, who was running for Kendall, who twisted his ankle, came into the plate standing and was nabbed.

The Lewis gang tied up the score in their half of the fourth when Colligan who looks like a twin of O'Hara, who used to be in the league with Portsmouth, Newark and Marion, singled. Hollingsworth error allowed him second, but Epier struck out three wide ones, making the first out. Hummell was safe on another wobble of Hollingsworth, but Reilly singled and Colligan scored. Reilly stole second and died there, for Meehan and Johnston were laid low.

Newark again forged to the front in their half of the chapter and Frank was the man who started it with his little single. He stole second and scored on errors of Hummell and Weller. Anderson was an easy out, and McDowell walked. He was left at first though, for Conley fled out and Hanna grounded.

SECOND GAME.
Marion made a runaway start in the second game, for the error germ again bobbed up in Newark's play and proved deadly. Reilly the bitter in the frame was passed and was sacrificed by Meehan. Johnston singled and Reilly scored. Singles by Weller and Ayette and errors by McDowell and Conley were responsible for the scoring of Johnston and Weller. After that the Diggers were held tight and were never dangerous.

In the fifth chapter Newark made her start, which lasted until Conley scored. McDowell started with what looked to be a single, but Hummell grabbed it. Conley singled and Hanna struck out. Then Clickinger drove the ball to left field fence for a double and Conley scampered home. In the seventh the Moders again scored and in exactly the same way. Again Hummell grabbed a sure hit of McDowell's only this time it was Goshorn who struck out, for he had been substituted as a hitter for Hanna. In exactly the same way Clickinger hit for two sacks and Conley scored. Kendall tried hard to score Clickinger but his effort was a roller and he died via Hummell to Johnston. The score:

SATURDAY'S GAME.
When the Moders and the Marion Diggers clashed Saturday afternoon, the callers had no difficulty in winning from the locals for the reason that they put up a clever exhibition of sand lot ball, and Baxter was invincible. It was an easy walkaway for Marion and when the final count was made the score stood 5 to 1 in their favor.

successive hits by Colligan and Epier. In the last round, Meehan, who was safe at first when Reilly was thrown out at second, scored on Johnston's single and Anderson's error at the plate. Johnston registered a little later on Ayette's three sacker through center field.

With two out in the fifth the Moders filled the bases through Baxter's wildness. Goshorn was walked and on a hit by Kendall and passes given Meyers and Riehl, Goshorn scored and prevented a shut out.

Behind the Screen
Newark's hitters are not well up in the list when it comes to the batting averages. Huffman of Lancaster is leading the league with a percentage of .500, but he has been in only seven games. O'Day is the real leader with hitting average of .321 for 15 games. The Newark averages are Goshorn .285, Kendall .255, Franken .253, Riehl .250, Rutherford .244, Clickinger .227, Conley .220, Meyers .195, B. Hollingsworth .181, Anderson .180, McDowell .148, Kopf .142, C. Hollingsworth .139, Hanna .138.

An examination of Hans Lobert's wrist has been made and it is found the large bone has been broken. He will be out of the game for at least two months, and possibly all season.

Smith for Zanesville pitched a great game against Terre Haute Saturday. In 11 innings he allowed but three hits and gave but one base on balls. His team won 5 to 1.

Manager Pete Childs has been fined $50 by President Read for his action at Lima the other day, and he telegram also said that future action of this sort would oust him from his job.

Umpire Mason, who participated in the Lima-Portsmouth game the other day when Portsmouth made a farce of it, will go to Portsmouth to umpire the coming series. He was sent there at his own request.

Columbus will possibly get "Rube" Waddell—then look out. If the twirler ever goes on a foot High street will resemble the "wild and woolly."

George Kaier is pitching great ball for Columbus and in the game Saturday he struck out 12 of the opposing batsmen. He may figure in the deal to St. Louis for Waddell.

CONVENTION OF ALPHA PI FRATERNITY

Ohio State convention of Alpha Pi fraternity was held at Columbus, O., June 23, 24 and 25. Seventy-five delegates from all the Ohio chapters, and members of the Supreme and Grand chapter were royally entertained by the Delta Chapter Alpha Pi.

A new law to conform with the state law governing high school fraternities, was made to read "That members of the high school cannot become active members of the fraternity until graduated, or otherwise out of the jurisdiction of high school authority." This law was added to the grand statutes of Alpha Pi.

A smoker was given in the private dining hall of the Busy Bee on Thursday evening, attended by the entire delegation, and the elaborate program as carried out during the evening reflected great credit upon the Delta chapter. Charles M. Reid, of Los Angeles, founder of the Alpha Pi, acted as toastmaster, and the numerous toasts responded to, and the good fellowship expressed, gave evidence of a splendid future for Alpha Pi and that fraternity spirit was far from being on the decline.

The annual dinner dance given at the Elmore Hotel at Groveport, was the crowning success of the convention. Private cars conveyed the party consisting of 75 couples. The beautiful surroundings of the Elmore, the elaborate course dinner, followed by the program dances, which lasted until midnight, made the week's entertainment complete.

Vernon T. Nelson of Columbus was elected supreme president, Carl L. Erman of this city, supreme vice president, this being the first time in five years that the presidency has not fallen to the Alpha Chapter of Newark.

Messrs. Trevor Davies, Walter Tyner and Harold Rutledge were delegates from the Alpha Chapter. Quite a number of members and their ladies attended the social functions, and were as follows: Carl O. Erman, Har. C.M.A. WON GAME

The C. M. A. boys journey to Columbus Sunday and defeated the fast Southwoods of that city. Scholl, who held the Newark boys to two hits when playing here, was hit hard and often. Allen as usual got a home run and a two bagger. A one-handed stop by Kennedy and the pitching of Landslager and the batting of Allen were features. Landslager held the Southwoods to three hits, which were scattered, all three of their runs being made on errors. The game was stopped in the seventh to allow the Buckeye-May & Co. game. A crowd of 700 witnessed the two games. The score:

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

A Ghost Ship

By GRACE ETHEL WEEKS

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

In 1855—the American ship Seminole, making a trip around the world, turned the Cape of Good Hope and pointed northward on the Atlantic ocean. The Seminole had left New York four years before, trading along the South American coast, Japan and other countries without hearing much, if any, news from her sailing port. She was a slow going brigantine and from whose bottom the barnacles had not been scraped since a month before her departure on her long voyage.

One summer evening she was lying becalmed off the west coast of Africa. The captain was playing cards with the first and second mate to kill time when the lookout cried:

"Wessel ashore on port bow."

Now, a ship in a storm at sea may not interest the crew of another ship, especially as the latter is breasting the same storm, but a burning craft is a very different matter. The game ceased, and all hands from captain to cabin boy strained their eyes in the direction indicated by the lookout. All they could see was a faint trace of smoke.

"There's wind there," remarked the captain after making an examination with a glass. "That smoke's drifting to leeward."

"It'll help burn her," said the second mate, "but it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good. We'll get it after awhile."

Presently a dark speck marking the hull appeared, but there was no flame, nor could any sails be distinguished. The vessel seemed to be coming toward the Seminole in a southerly direction, but the smoke instead of moving with her was drifting in her wake.

"That beats anything I ever see," remarked one of the crew. "I've been a sailor twenty years, and I never see a burnin' ship movin' without sails and the smoke blowin' behind her without any wind."

"Not knock me out," said another, "is there bells no flame."

"They've got theatches backed down to keep the fire below decks," said a third. "Nothin' but smoke can get out."

The ship, moving without sails, came steadily on till to the crew of the Seminole she appeared larger, but was growing faint in the dimming twilight. As she drew near she was pointed directly toward them. A terror spread through not only the Seminole's crew, but the officers. Here was a burning ship coming to run them down.

"Great guns!" cried the captain. "Am I dreamin'? Say, you Martin!" addressing her first mate. "Do you see a smokin' vessel comin' while we're in the doldrums?"

"That I do, sir," replied the first mate. "And I don't understand her."

"She's a ghost ship!" exclaimed a sailor with blanched cheeks.

"Been burned at sea and haunts the place where she went up in smoke!" added another.

"It must 'a' been all smoke and no flame!" cried a third.

"There is a light on her bow!" said the second mate. "Some 'un must 'a' kep' his head pretty close to put that out with the ship afloat."

"How does she manage to keep so straight a course without any wind to steer by?"

These and many other comments on the wonder continued to be made while the hull of the coming ship was growing larger and less distinct in the growing darkness.

"Swing out the boats!" cried the captain.

The crew ran to the boats, but were so mad with terror that they tumbled over one another lowering one end, while the ropes holding the other to the davits were left unfastened. Finally the boats were all swung out and some of them in the water when there was a flash of light on the coming ship. Every man stood stock still, thinking that the magazine or some other combustible had exploded and that when the sound had time to cross the distance between them and the doomed ship they would hear a roar, followed by the shrieks of those who had been blown skyward.

"Stand by to save life!" cried the captain.

But the seconds passed, and there was no sound either of explosion or of shrieking people.

By this time both officers and crew of the Seminole were so bewildered that they magnified every appearance on or about what they believed to be a ghost ship. But one case of terror was allayed. The smoking bulk's prow was turned so that if she kept her course she would run them down.

Indeed, by the time she came latitudinally on the same plane with them and they saw her broadside she was several hundred yards to the starboard of them. Something like wheels was propelling her.

Then suddenly through an opening in her side which looked like the mouth of hell opened a swarthy figure stripped to the waist appeared in the glare shoveling in fuel.

"The devil!" exclaimed the men on the Seminole, crossing themselves, while others dropped on their knees.

Several weeks later, when the Seminole reached her home port and her crew told the marvelous tale of the ghost ship, they were laughed at.

"Since you sailed," they were informed, "steam has been applied to ocean craft."

A PLUMP FIGURE MEANS A WELL NOURISHED BODY

This People Freshen Up With Free Trial Treatment.

You know that one-fifth of your weight should consist of blood.

If you are thin it is because your blood supply is weak and insufficient. Blood to the human being is exactly what moisture is to withered vegetation.

Every organ of the body receives its strength from the blood which comes from head to foot once every three minutes. It is absorbed, sponge-like, by the flesh. It nourishes and makes new flesh only in proportion to its abundance and its richness.

That is why Dr. Boy's Tonic has become universally renowned as the only genuine Flesh Builder. For it establishes more perfect blood making and acts as a powerful tonic for the whole body, through the nerves and blood. It rouses into action certain natural functions which are dormant. Thus building up the flesh and tissues in those who are naturally thin and slender.

No other treatment accomplishes such remarkable results in improving the figure and establishing healthy conditions through the entire system. What's more, you realize the wonderful effects immediately. You begin taking on firm new flesh at once. You notice the hollow places filling out. Curves taking the place of angles. You feel stronger and more energetic. Appetite improves. Sleep refreshes you. Pleasure becomes more inviting. You don't get tired easily.

As a result of its use the skin becomes velvety and firm and the natural color of beauty soon appears where there was hollowness before. A finer texture to the skin is given and a very much improved complexion.

SIMPLE CORN CURES.

How to Relieve Oneself of Troublesome Afflictions by Simple Methods.

With proper attention and suitable footwear children should not be afflicted either with callous spots or corns. Nevertheless children often do suffer with both. In such case one of these three sure, safe and simple remedies will be found satisfactory:

Peel and chop very fine two small white onions and apply directly to the afflicted part by means of a firm bandage. Leave on overnight and next morning bathe the foot in very soapy warm water. Repeat for three nights.

Rid half a prune from which the pit has been removed with the soft inner side upon the corn and leave overnight. Repeat three or four nights.

Thoroughly soak a thick slice of white bread in strong, undiluted vinegar. tie this poultice firmly over the callous place for the night and in the morning bathe the foot in sudsy warm water. Repeat one or two nights.

How to Make Your Skin Rosy.

The girl who is persistently pale in spite of dieting and exercise will find a pleasant way of making her skin rosy by the following simple method: Dip the finger tips into warm honey, massage this well into the face, massaging the lips also, but gently; wipe off the sticky feeling with a clean damp cloth and dash cold salt and water, a teaspoonful of salt to a pint of water, over the face for ten minutes, then dry well. This acts as a tonic to the skin, giving it color and freshness. The skin, however, should be well protected from cold winds immediately after such a bath.

How to Make Yorkshire Pudding.

Take three eggs, one pint of milk, one cup of flour and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat the eggs very light, add the milk pour over the flour and salt and beat well. Bake in basting hot greasy pans, basting with drippings from the beef, or place the roast on a rack and pour the pudding batter in the pan under it.

SAILOR-SHAPS FOR THE SUMMER GIRL.

Could anything be better adapted to keep off the rays of the sun and at the same time prove a becoming frame for a pretty girl's face than the sailor hat seen in the picture?

It is called the Roosevelt or jungle hat and was suggested to an English designer of woman's millinery after looking at the hat "our Teddy" wore while in Egypt. The necessary feminine modifications were made, and the hat stands a blessing to the girl who goes out much in the strong sun or who loves canoeing.

powdered magnesia and water into a paste and rub it on the felt with a clean toothbrush. Let it dry thoroughly and then brush out the magnesia, when the hat will probably look quite clean. If this is not the case repeat the process.

Heart and Home Talks

by Barbara Boyd

An Occupation for the Retired Business Woman.

Among the new conditions that are confronting women today is the question of what to do when the business career is over. The business woman who has saved enough to live on has, of course, no such problem. But she is in the minority. Thousands of business women have not been able to save enough to retire upon, yet the time has come when they must yield their positions to the younger generation. Employers, especially in stores, where thousands of women hold positions, do not care for a woman employee after she has passed a certain age. It is as difficult for her to obtain a position after she is advanced in years as it is to hold the one she has. What then shall she do?

This condition is becoming one of the serious problems of the day. Many of the societies formed for helping working women have applications for advice as to what to do from hundreds of middle-aged women who can no longer secure positions because of their age, but who have not saved enough to live on for the rest of their lives. Many do not want to sit idle even if they could. They are healthy, active women and they still want an interest in the world's work.

To the woman who loves country life the "back-to-the-farm movement" offers an opening to still earn her living and to do it in an independent fashion, a factor that appeals to many. This "back-to-the-farm movement" is so well organized and managed that even a woman inexperienced in the requirements of country life can take advantage of it.

The plan is sponsored by well-known people of the country, and at the meeting to formulate plans, such prominent people as Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, W. J. Bryan, Jacob Rellis, B. F. Yoakum, Lyman Abbott, Jane Addams, Joseph W. Folk and others of equal prominence took part.

The idea is to locate colonies on model farms in Texas, Missouri, Alabama and other states where land is cheap and fertile. Each farmer will be allotted forty acres; a home will be erected for him and fences, utensils and live stock furnished. Thirty-two of these forty-acre farms will constitute a colony.

Each colony will include a central farm, presided over by an expert agriculturist, who will oversee the work on the farms, the proper rotation of the crops, etc. Tenants will be given ample time to pay for their farms, and their profits have been figured out as averaging $3,500 a year.

Each colony will have a school where scientific farming will be taught in addition to the usual curriculum.

Entertainments will be provided for the colonists, so that farm life will lose the monotony that is now largely responsible for the rush to the cities.

Applications for farms will be passed on by a committee appointed for that purpose. The plan is made up of the best features of similar plans that have worked out successfully in Europe.

There will be none of the lonely farm life that is such a deterrent to country living to many. And there need be none of the hardships that have been such a drawback in the past to farm life.

The woman who has saved a little money can use it to give her home the city conveniences of hot and cold water; to provide herself with the latest labor-saving inventions, such as washing machines, bread-making machines, vacuum cleaners, and the many things that do quickly and easily the hardest parts of housework; and also to add a few of the luxuries in the way of music, books and magazines, which lend so much pleasure to life.

The business woman who sees the time approaching when she must quit the business arena would do well to look into the matter if the country has charms for her

IS IT USELESS TO SEND DEMOCRATS TO CONGRESS?

Senator N. E. Scott of West Virginia, was the chairman of the committee which increased the appropriation for Newark's new post-office building, and to him and the Ohio Senator is the credit for it due. How much of a chance would Congressman Ashbrook, a Democrat, have with those stand-patters in securing any more appropriations?—American Tribune.

Newark friends of Congressman Ashbrook would not detract one iota of credit from the West Virginia Senator, the close personal friend of Captain A. H. Heisey, of this city, for his part in securing additional post-office appropriation.

But what earthly justification is there for the Newark American-Tribune's absurd claim, that it is useless for the people to elect Democratic Congressmen for the reason that they can have no influence with Republican "stand-patters" in securing any appropriations?

Didn't Congressman Ashbrook have influence when the House passed his bill making appropriation of $50,000 for Wooster?

The next House of Representatives at Washington will have a clear Democratic majority. As this will be reinforced by an increased number of Republican insurgents, it is plain that the stand-patters will be in a decided minority.

Then our bustling Congressman, Mr. Ashbrook, being elected for a third term, will be placed on important committees that no member can attain until he has had a third term experience, and will be able to increase his efficiency in securing favors and benefits for his constituents and in promoting the interests of his district.

The fact that our Congressman has a correspondence with old soldiers from a score of states is evidence of the appreciation that the veterans of the country owe him for the services he has rendered their cause. When they are heard to say daily "We have a Congressman that DOES THINGS," it is unnecessary to add that the old soldiers of our county and district know their friend.

Burton's Fillibuster Against Conservation

(Columbus Dispatch, Ind. Rep.)
For five hours, Friday, in the United States senate Mr. Burton, talking on a multitude of irrelevant subjects, filibustered to kill the White Mountain and Southern Appalachian forest reserve bill. He succeeded by resorting to legislative sharp practice and misuse of senatorial privilege in preventing a vote on one of the most vital and important measures in the general scheme for the conservation of the natural resources of the country Secretary Ballinger himself and all the interests in opposition to conservation could not have been more devoted advocates. The junior senator from Ohio was not content to resist his individual antagonism, to state his case and make his appeal for retraction. He chose rather to stop the machinery of legislation altogether, leaving the majority of the senate was in favor of the bill and would pass it if accorded an opportunity.

What has led the senator to this championship of the cause of those who deplete the forests and the streams for their own gain? He says he is fighting conservation because of the cost of it. But what of the cost of the failure to conserve the forests? And when did his nation become so poor that it had not money for the necessities of its own existence and prosperity? Mr. Burton is posing as a watchdog of the treasury, but in that role he is a sham. He is serving not the people, but the special interests which he served so conspicuously when he voted almost continuously with Aldrich on the tariff.

When Mr. Burton was elected to the senate from Ohio he was believed to be a zealous champion of the interests of the people. He was supposed to represent a new order of things. As a senator of the United States he shattered those beliefs and suppositions of public opinion in Ohio almost at the beginning. His record since his elevation to that high office has been more than a disappointment. It has been a calamity.

PUBLICITY OF CONTRIBUTIONS AFTER ELECTION

Within the past few days President Taft has been given credit for securing the passage of quite a number of bills over which the two Houses of Congress had disagreed. In each instance the legislation thus put on record is said to have been exactly as the President desired. Accordingly the latter cannot deny responsibility for the publicity bill that was finally agreed to by the conferees, nor can he fail to take unto himself whatever credit, or discredit, may be connected therewith. So we may assume that the sort of publicity provided for in this conference bill is all the publicity which the President believes the public to be entitled to. He does not believe that voters have a right to know whether the Sugar Trust or the Oil, Iron or Steel Trusts are financing the campaign of a candidate for Congress or the Presidency until thirty days after the election.

We have it now on the highest Republican authority of the Senator Lodge committee that the high cost of living is due entirely to high prices. And people cannot be dislodged from their knowledge of the fact and conviction that the high tariff has produced high prices.

Seldom if ever has there been a Democrat placed in nomination for the high office of governor of the great state of Ohio under more promising conditions than Governor Harmon. He has the solid and enthusiastic support of his party in all sections of the state and the party is united on principles as it never has been before.

The election of a legislature which will elect instead of hindering the governor in eliminating grafts and establishing business methods in the various departments is something to be looked forward to as a foregone conclusion.

BIDS RECEIVED FOR EXTENSION OF WATER WORKS

The contract for the extension of the municipal water works system may be let today or Tuesday, according to Service Engineer Taylor. Bids have been received for the work, which will include the laying of pipe on portions of 41 streets of the city. There were two bidders for the contract, the East Liverpool Sand and Gravel company of East Liverpool and S. J. White and P. C. Webb of this city. The bid of the local man was $122,893.35 and that of the East Liverpool concern $124,044.90. There will be 1200 lined feet of 8-inch pipe laid, and of the 6-inch pipe 3,225 feet will be put in the ground. Sixty hydrants will be placed and the work will be commenced soon. The bid of the East Liverpool concern said the work would be completed in 90 days but the local men put a time limit of 180 days on their contract.

LAST FIGHT ON TAFT POLICIES.

Quick Work of Congress in Putting Through Measures.

SCENES IN THE SENATE.

How That Body Handled the Postal Bank Bill and Other Important Measures—A Dramatic Incident. Senator Scott and the "Pork" Bill.

Washington, June 27.—Say what we will about the American congress, it certainly can be imposing when it gets fully into action. As an example I take one hour in the senate. It was the day on which the body concurred in the house postal savings bank bill and ordered the reclamation bond bill and the campaign publicity bill to conference. The vote on postal banks was fixed for 5 o'clock. After the debate had droned along through the afternoon the bells rang for a vote. First, there was a roll call on the Bristow amendment changing the rate of interest from 2 1/2 to 3 per cent. This was defeated, and the final roll call was ordered. Interest was tense, as this was the last big fight on the Taft program. The president had remained away from his son's graduation at Yale to see this bill through. Practically every senator then in Washington was in his seat. The galleries, while not crowded, were well filled and the two front rows and parts of the rear rows in the press gallery showed ranks of men with busy pencils. There was no applause as the tallies showed the passage of the bill, and yet that moment marked the beginning of a new and important departure for the American government. After twenty years of discussion postal savings banks were at last assured.

Quick Work.
No sooner was this measure out of the way than Senator Lodge was on his feet with the reclamation bond bill. The action on this was as rapid as had been the vote on the other. Lodge announced that the committee concurred in the house out from $90,000,000 to $200,000,000, but that it did not concur in the provision putting the whole irrigation system under the control of army engineers. In passing it should be explained that this was a companion piece to the bill increasing the army engineers and putting them in the place of Director Newell of the reclamation service—a proposition that Senator Bailey had killed by a filibuster. Senator Lodge moved to strike out the army engineers clause. The motion was adopted, and the bill was ordered to conference. Quick work, this, on measures of far-reaching importance! But the really dramatic incident was to come.

Campaign Publicity.
It is the province of Senator Cullum to move an executive session at the close of each day's sitting. It being understood, of course, that this is a preliminary to adjournment. While the reclamation bond bill was being considered Cullum gave notice that as soon as it was disposed of he would move for an executive session, and Senator Bailey served notice that he would object and insist on the bill for campaign publicity. Lodge backed up Bailey. Cullum flushed a little and for an old man showed something of a fighting gleam in his eye. True to his word, he made the motion, and under the leadership of Lodge and Bailey it was defeated. The campaign publicity bill was instantly up, the Democrats insisting on a record vote against the amendment to strike out publication before election. All the insurgents and some regulars joined them, but there were not enough. Reveridge announced that at the next session of congress he would move to extend publicity to all federal elections, this bill covering only congressional elections. Then the vote was taken, the bill passed and was ordered to conference. Less than an hour had been occupied, and yet in that time the United States senate had put through three of the Taft policies—postal savings banks, reclamation bonds and publicity for campaign contributions. The great machine had driven ahead with the speed and certainty of a locomotive. Then Senator Cullum got his executive session.

Why "Scotty" Couldn't Keep Up.
There was one amusing incident on the morning of the same day, and this likewise was a result of the express train time on which things were being done. It was on one of the "pork" bills—that relating to public buildings—and Senator Scott was in charge. The clerk was plotting through figures like a bird dog through a wheatfield, and the speed took "Scotty's" breath. Several times he had to call a halt, trying to find out what page the clerk was reading on or to straighten out some tangle into which the fast pace had involved him. Twice he offered this identical excuse for delaying the procession, "Mr. President, five or six senators were trying to talk to me at once, and I could not keep up." It was observed that Senator Reed Smoot of Utah was one of the "five or six," but it was evidently to some purpose that he butted in, for one of the amendments moved by "Scotty" was $5,000 for some town in Utah, where at Smoot smiled in a satisfied way and beat a retreat.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Secretary Fraser of the Y. M. C. A. was the guest of the association at Wheeling, W. Va., Sunday, being one of a number of speakers for their Young Men's day in the churches. The Wheeling Y. M. C. A. has recently moved into a fine new building costing $15,000, exclusive of the lot, which was a gift. This week a campaign will be made to raise $5,000 to clear up all debts on both building and maintenance. Tuesday is the final day for boys to register for the Y. M. C. A. summer camp. Mr. Lindroott and probably Mr. Livingston too, will go to camp and see that every boy gets the best of camp. It is likely that the camp will be merged with the Ohio State Y. M. C. A. camp at Camp Bodd on the Glenhurst, north of Columbus. The Ohio state committee has bought the farm and will make it a permanent feature of their work. Boys from all over the state can be given a few outings and later on it is the idea to make it a summer school of training for boys. Trustees of the Y. M. C. A. meet tonight to tackle some very important business matters. The association plans and policy for the balance of the year will be decided most likely. These hot days the swimming pool is the center of attraction. The class for boys is doing well and some of the youngsters are learning fast. It is possible that knowing how to swim will prevent a drowning this summer.

Daddy's Bedtime Story
Country Mouse and City Mouse

"Run!" said the City Mouse.

Once upon a time, said daddy when it was time for him to tell another bedtime story, "there were two mice who were great friends. One of them lived in the country and the other lived in the city. So we shall call them Country Mouse and City Mouse."

Country Mouse had his home at the foot of a tree in a hole which he had fitted up for himself. There he lived winter and summer, and he was very comfortable and happy. For he loved the country and liked the good plain food which he found there. Of course the farmers whose grain he ate did not like him, but that is another story.

"City Mouse lived in a great, big, house that belonged to a rich family. He had his home in a hole in the wall, and he lived on what he could steal from the pantry. He had very good food, it is true, and plenty of it, but he was not as happy as Country Mouse, for the family kept a big cat that was a good mouse hunter and had already killed and eaten City Mouse's parents and brothers and sisters. City Mouse was the last of his family."

"One day Country Mouse sent a letter to City Mouse, asking him to pay him a visit. City Mouse was glad to go, because he thought that the country air would do him good. But when he had been at Country Mouse's home for a short time he did not care any more for the plain food that he found there."

"So one day he said to Country Mouse, 'See here; let's both go back to my home, and I will show you what good living is.'"

"Country Mouse listened to him and agreed to go with him to his home. After they got there City Mouse gave his friend from the country many good things to eat, and Country Mouse began to think it was a very fine thing to live in the city. But one day just as they were eating a nice piece of cheese City Mouse grabbed him by the fore leg and screamed, 'Run!'"

"They ran until they were both out of breath. Then Country Mouse, when he could breathe again, asked, 'Why, what was the matter?'"

"Didn't you see the cat?" asked City Mouse.

"No," said Country Mouse. "What is a cat?"

"Why," said City Mouse, "it's a great big animal with sharp teeth and claws which eats up mice."

"And you have one of them in this house?" asked Country Mouse. "And it tries to eat you up?"

"Yes," said City Mouse, "and I have to be mighty spry to get away."

"Well," said Country Mouse, "then I'm going back to my country home, where there is no big cat. I'd rather live on plain food without being afraid every day of my life."

FOR THE CHILDREN
A Horse Chestnut Basket.
When the big brown autumn days come and the brown leaves rush down from the trees you and your friends will probably begin to hunt for horse chestnuts. You know how you find them when you are shuffling through the leaves that some one has just plucked up in a tidy heap. Sometimes they are scattered around loose and sometimes they are still neatly packed into their neat, cozy beds in the great brown. And, oh, don't they look new and shiny, like beautifully brushed horses, when you take them out of their nest!
But after you have met them awhile they get hard and shrunken, so it is a good idea to make the best of them while they are quite new. Do you ever make baskets of them? It is quite easy to make very cunning little baskets if you have a good penknife.
Turn the chestnut on end and cut two parallel lines down the middle to form the handle. Stop halfway down the chestnut and cut straight out to the side. Pick out the inside, and there is your dear little basket all complete. Of course if you are very clever with your penknife you can make a basket with a double handle, one going each way, and lots of other things.
Treat Animals Kindly.
The best authorities agree that dogs should not be whipped nor struck a blow more severe than a slap with the hand. A dog is intelligent and as sensitive to the tones of the voice as a child. The voice alone is all that is needed to reprove him. If it is necessary to punish your dog do it at the time of the transgression and not as one boy did, two days after the wrongdoing.

The top of a castle from the ground is 45 yards high and surrounded by a ditch 60 yards broad. What length must a ladder be to reach from the outside of the ditch to the top of the castle? Answer—75 yards.
Invisible Writing.
For invisible writing use a clean pen dipped in lemon juice. After the writing dries it will not be visible, but if the paper is held in the heat the writing will mysteriously appear in brown. Thus you might send what to those unacquainted with the secret would appear to be a blank page. But your friend, knowing the plan, has only to hold the seemingly blank page to a flame to see plainly all you have written.
Conundrums.
Made of awl work. Shoes.
Mean to a degree. The temperature.
If you multiply a vowel by a vowel, what instrument will you make? Axe (A x E).
Which fruit is never single? The pear.
Which fruit revels in history? The date.
Which tree forbids suicide? The olive (O live).
Passing the Ring.
The children form a circle, with one child in the center. On a string long enough to reach around the circle a gold ring is threaded, and the children, holding the string loosely in their hands, slip the ring along from hand to hand. The player in the center watches closely, trying to catch the ring under the hand of some child, who must take his place.

Teach Children to Protect Property.
Children should be taught to have a proper regard not only for the premises on which they live, but for that of others and all in public spots, as school grounds, parks and parkways. If they are taught a proper appreciation of public trees and plants they will soon come to regard them as a personal possession, and but few children will destroy or injure that in which they have even a small joint ownership. "What is everybody's property is nobody's property" no longer applies.

How to Keep Cut Flowers.
Choose flowers that are not quite fully out and cut them early in the morning with long stems. Arrange them not too close together in a vase deep enough to immerse two-thirds of the stems. By previously putting some pieces of charcoal in the vase the water can be kept sweet, but in any case it should be changed every five or six days. Keep the vase always full of water. Keep the flowers in a cool but not too drafty place. Certain flowers do much better if a small portion of the stem is cut off, especially if they have been carried a long way, and a certain number are better for slicing the stems up so as to let them absorb the water more easily. This is especially so with flowers that are apt to go off quickly, like the heliobores.—Gardening Illustrated.

S.S.S. FOR SCROFULA
NATURE'S PERFECT CURE
The children of blood tainted parentage inherit a polluted circulation to burden their existence with disease and suffering. Swollen glands about the neck, weak eyes, running sores and abscesses, pale, waxy complexions, and frail, poorly developed systems are the most usual ways in which the disease is manifested. In some cases the blood is so filled with the scrofulous germs that from birth, life is made miserable with suffering, while in other cases it is held in check during young, vigorous life, but when the system begins to weaken, especially after a spell of sickness, the ravages of the disease will commence. S. S. S. is Nature's perfect cure for Scrofula, made entirely of healthful roots, herbs and barks, a safe medicine for young or old. S. S. S. goes into the circulation and drives out all scrofulous matter, and entirely removes the cause. It supplies the blood with the healthful properties it is in need of and in this way builds up weak, frail, disease-burdened persons and makes them strong, robust and healthy. S. S. S. cures Scrofula, because it is the most perfect of all blood purifiers. Book on the Blood and any medical advice free to all who write.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...

Sermon by
CHARLES T. RUSSELL
Pastor Brooklyn
Tabernacle.

Three Men and Two Women Whom Jesus Loved.

Text, "Lord, He Whom Thou Lovest Is Sick."

Chicago, June 26.—Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle preached here today in Orchestra Hall. As usual he had a large and attentive audience. We quote one of his discourses in part as follows:

All men who have any knowledge of Jesus esteem him—Christians, Gentiles, and Jews. All men whatever their religious convictions are ready to admit the surpassing personality of the great Nazarene and his wonderful words of life. It is as respects his Messiahship that they differ. However, we submit that if he were not the special servant of Jehovah, the Son of God, as he claimed, sent into the world on a special mission, then he must of necessity have been either a deceived man or a wicked impostor. His wonderful personality and words of justice and wisdom and love contradict the thought that he was either ignorant or a deceiver. Hence the only tenable ground is that he was indeed the Son of God who acted and spoke and performed miracles under Divine direction and power. We hold that the evidences of his teaching overwhelmingly corroborate the truth of his claims. But here we make a distinction between the claims which our Lord Jesus made for himself and other claims which have been made for him without his sanction and without apostolic or other inspired corroboration.

Let it not be supposed that we are forgetting the length and breadth of Jesus' love for all humanity and a special love for all of his disciples, yes, for all who loved righteousness and sought, as he did, to do the Father's will. In keeping with this was his prayer for his disciples on the night before his crucifixion, in connection with which we read, "Jesus having loved his own, loved them unto the end" (John xiii, 1). And again his statement, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends" (John xv, 13). And again his statement, "Who is my mother, and who are my brethren?" And he stretched forth his hand to his disciples, and said, Behold my mother, and my brethren! For whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in Heaven, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother" (Matthew xiii, 45-50). These expressions give us a glimpse of the length and breadth of the love of Jesus. But for the present occasion let us consider those persons whom Jesus is said to have specially loved.

"Jesus Beholding Him Loved Him."
The rich young nobleman who came to the Lord said, Rabbi, what good thing shall I do that I may inherit the Kingdom of God? Jesus saith unto him, Thou knowest the commandments, and he said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth. Then Jesus beholding him, loved him. Jesus lovingly admired the young man who was thus desirous of being in full accord with the Heavenly Father's will. That young man had very much of the Master's own spirit. He wanted to do right and he desired to have the gift of God, eternal life. He thought that he must have merited this by his faithful attention to the Law. Yet he knew that he had not attained to eternal life, that the death sentence was still upon him. He sought counsel of the greatest Rabbi, the greatest Teacher. That Teacher loved so earnest a spirit and offered him advice on what he still lacked of coming fully up to God's requirements of those who will be granted a place in the Messianic Kingdom, which in "due time" is to bless Israel and, through Israel, all the families of the earth.

In no uncertain terms the Master gave the young man to see that while he had been keeping, probably to the best of his ability, the commandments of the decalogue, he had only imperfectly discerned the meaning of the Divine requirement of love for his neighbor as for himself. The young man was very rich. And to fulfill the requirements of the Law to love his neighbor as himself would have meant not the hoarding of wealth, nor necessarily the distribution of it all, but the wise use of it in the interest of his fellowmen. But to gain a share in the Kingdom would require even more than this. He must take up his cross and become a follower of Jesus—walking in the steps of full obedience to the Divine will. The price was too much for the young man, and he went his way. Jesus merely answered the question but did not urge the young man to thus present himself a living sacrifice to God and his service. Indeed in no case did Jesus ever do more than invite—never did he urge. On the contrary he advised. Sit down first and count the cost of discipleship.

What could we surmise respecting the eternal destiny of this young man who had been striving so earnestly to keep the Law and to gain eternal life, and who turned from Jesus and declined to take up the cross and follow him? Could we suppose that Divine Justice would send such a man to eternal torment under these conditions? If there were such a penalty over him could we suppose that Jesus would have allowed him to go without urging him strenuously, without at least warning him, that by his course he was making the choice of eternal torment? Can we suppose that our Master knew that all the people whom he addressed and who failed to accept his message would be consequently consigned to eternal torture, and that he let them go without urging the matter upon them? We could not so think! Thank God we are gradually getting free from the bondage of error fastened upon us by those who misinterpreted certain words in our Bible.

We get the proper view when we remember that Jesus' message at that time was "The Gospel of the Kingdom." He was merely inviting whosoever might have the ear to hear and the heart to appreciate the privilege to become associated with himself in the glorious Kingdom for which he told his disciples to pray, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." What the rich young man lost was the special privilege of becoming a joint-heir with Christ in that Kingdom which, in due time, will be established and whose mission will be the blessing of Israel and the world. It will bring to them "times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began" Acts iii, 19-21.

"He Whom Thou Lovest Is Sick."
Our text stands related to a very wonderful chapter in our Lord's ministry. Jesus with his disciples was about three days' journey from Bethany, the home of Lazarus, Martha and Mary. But they knew his whereabouts, for he was a special friend and their home was his home whenever he was near Jerusalem. Lazarus took seriously ill. But the two sisters, Martha and Mary, feared nothing, since they had such great confidence in Jesus, even to belief in his ability to awaken sleepers from death. They thought it proper to send the Master word respecting Lazarus, but not proper to dictate to him what should be done in the case. Rather they left to himself to decide whether he should speak the word and rebuke the disease or whether he should come to Bethany and take the sick by the hand and say, Arise. The simple message they sent was, "Lord, he whom thou lovest is sick." The beautiful, childlike, simple faith which they exhibited must have been very precious in the Master's sight. Nevertheless Jesus said nothing, and did nothing in the matter for three days. Then he said to his disciples, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth." They did not grasp his meaning until he said to them plainly, Lazarus is dead; and I am glad for your sakes that I was not there. I am glad because it will give me an opportunity to demonstrate to you and through you to all who shall be my disciples in the future the great power of God that is vested in me in respect to the resurrection of the dead.

All Bible students surely have noticed how frequently in the Scriptures the word "sleep" is used as a poetical synonym for death. "Abraham slept with his fathers." "David slept with his fathers." Prophets, priests and kings are said to have slept with their fathers, whether good or bad. Likewise the New Testament uses the same figure of speech. We read that St. Stephen the martyr, stoned to death, "fell asleep." St. Paul speaks of the Church as falling asleep in death and refers to all of our friends, good and bad, who go down into death, as being "asleep in Jesus." He tells us that we need not sorrow for them as others who know not the resurrection hope. All who fall asleep in death because of Adam's transgression and its death sentence have in Jesus a Divinely appointed Redeemer who in God's due time is to awaken all the sleeping hosts of Adam's race. "All that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of man and come forth." They that have done good (who have secured Divine approval as worthy of eternal life) shall come forth into the resurrection for judgment (John v, 28, 29) or trial for discipline, for correction in righteousness during Messiah's reign of 1,000 years.

Coming forth in that judgment time or trial time, all the willing and obedient will eventually be lifted out of sin and death, while those disobedient to the light and opportunity will be again consigned to death—Second Death, everlasting extinction (John v, 28, 29, R. V.).

We have read our Bibles too carefully in the past and have given too much heed to those who, with less opportunities than ourselves, grossly misinterpreted its teachings. What did we think respecting this word "sleep" anyway? Did we suppose that both the good and the bad "sleep" in heaven? We were told that the bad would go to a place too warm for them. But our own brains and our own Bibles never thought of using in connection with the subject. Now, when we hearken to the Word of God, how plain, how simple, how reasonable are its teachings! The dead are dead and not alive. However, in view of God's plan that there shall be a resurrection of the dead "in due time" he speaks of the dead not as extinct like the brute, but as merely asleep. They are waiting for the morning—the glorious morning of Messiah's Kingdom, when "the Sun of Righteousness shall arise with healing in its beams," when Satan shall be bound for a thousand years and deceive the peoples no more. Instead of the reign of Sin and Death the reign of Righteousness and Life—everlasting shall begin. How beautifully the Scriptures answer the question of where the dead sleep. "Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake" (Daniel xii, 2).

"Lazarus, Come Forth."
Jesus and his disciples turned their steps toward Bethany. Poor Martha and Mary meantime were sorely disappointed. Not for a moment did they suppose that their mighty Friend would allow this trouble to come upon them—that he would neglect to come or to use his power to save Lazarus from dying. So grief-stricken and so heart-broken were they that Martha first came to meet the Master, and her first words were those of gentle reproach reminding him of their disappointment in him: "Lord, if thou hadst been here—if thou hadst come when we sent thee—our brother had not died."

What message of comfort did Jesus express? Did he say, Martha, Lazarus is far better off in heaven? He is with the angels! He is singing and very happy! Surely you would not bring him back to earth again! Were these the words of Jesus? No. He merely said, "Thy brother shall rise again." He thus implied that her brother was not alive but really dead. How could he rise again if he had not ceased to live? Martha's reply indicates that she understood what were the teachings of Jesus and of the prophets. She said, "I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day." But Jesus wished to draw her attention to the present and to have her ask him even at this time to call Lazarus back from the sleep of death. So he said, "I am the resurrection and the life." You, Martha, recognize me as the Messiah, the Son of God. You believe that eventually when the resurrection does take place, God's resurrection power will be exercised through me. And now I am here with you. Why do you not ask me to exercise some of this power in advance? Where have you laid him?

Martha finally caught the thought, but replied, No, no, Lord, it is too late now. By this time he stinketh, for he has been dead four days. If you had come when I sent you word, or even had gotten here within a day or so, there would have been some hope, but now it has gone too far for that; for decomposition has set in. No miracle could possibly reorganize broken-down tissues. But Jesus insisted that they should show him the place. When he came to the tomb, what did the Master do? Did he command Lazarus to lay aside his crown and harp in heaven and bid the angels goodbye and come back to earth life? No! Did he call for him to come up from Purgatory, the location of which nobody knows? No! What did he say? Addressing the tomb, he said, "Lazarus, come forth!" And what occurred? The dead one came forth. He was not alive at all! He was dead!

The Beloved Family.
We read again, "Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus." Some have thought that they discerned Lazarus amongst later disciples of Christ—possibly Barnabas. But any way he was one whom Jesus loved, even though he was not one of the apostles who followed with the Lord. And Martha has come down to us as a synonym of bustling, energetic hospitality, "busied about many things." Yet surely she was loving and loyal to the Master. Jesus loved Martha and we may be sure therefore that he loves all of similar character. But he loved Mary also. And we do not forget that when she gave up some of her housework that she might sit at the feet of Jesus and learn of him the Master declared that she had "chosen the better part." This was the same Mary who anointed the Master with the precious spikenard ointment five days before his burial. Martha and Mary both loved and were loved of the Lord, yet, evidently, Mary's love and the form it took was specially approved of the Master.

Finally we come to John the loving disciple of whom it is said that he was "that disciple whom Jesus loved." What a glorious testimony was John's! We remember that he and his brother loved the Lord so dearly that they desired that in his Kingdom in the future they might be next to him, one on his right hand, the other on his left hand. We remember that the Master answered that only by drinking of his cup of shame and ignominy, and by being baptized into his sacrificial death could they hope to sit in his throne at all. And we recall how loyally they agreed to these terms.

In proportion as we are desirous of having the Master's approval and smile, let us each seek to cultivate his character-likes. The Apostle tells us that such copies of God's dear Son are to be honored with a share with him in his Kingdom glory on the heavenly plane. To such will come the honor and privilege of blessing and uplifting mankind in general—to an earthly salvation in Paradise restored—by and by. As we note the special features of character which called forth the Master's love we will more and more be able to copy them in reaching our goal.

CATCHES EYE OF ROOSEVELT

Ohio Valley Exposition To Be Held at Cincinnati.

WILL ATTEND THE EXHIBITION

Former President Presented With a Formal Invitation to Visit the Great Industrial Enterprise—Directly Interested in Celebration of Completion of the Fern Bank Dam Below the Queen City.

Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—When Former President Roosevelt was seen in Paris recently by a representative of the Ohio Valley Exposition and presented with a formal invitation to attend this extensive industrial enterprise, to be held at Cincinnati from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24, he expressed a strong desire to attend, and promised to do so, provided the Exposition dates did not conflict with an arrangement he had made to attend a reunion of the John Brown raid survivors. He has been learned since that Mr. Roosevelt will be able to arrange his Western itinerary so that he can spend several days in Cincinnati during September, and there is every reason to believe that he will do so. In his conference with Secretary P. Lincoln Mitchell of the Exposition company, who presented the formal invitation, Colonel Roosevelt expressed himself as deeply interested in the several objects to be commemorated by the Exposition.

He is directly interested in celebration of the completion of the Fern Bank dam, just below Cincinnati, this being one of the fifty-four dams planned by the Government to establish navigable water in the Ohio river the year around, and which was given its first official sanction by Colonel Roosevelt at Cincinnati in 1902, when he was president. Another event that will be celebrated by the Exposition and in which Colonel Roosevelt is directly interested, is the centenary of the establishing of steam navigation on the Ohio river, his grand-uncle, Nicholas Roosevelt, having constructed the first steamboat ever built west of the Allegheny mountains and launched at Pittsburgh in 1810. It is expected that during his visit to Cincinnati Colonel Roosevelt will be the guest of his daughter and son-in-law, Congressman Longworth who now is being prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination for Governor of Ohio, and who may have the assistance of his distinguished father-in-law in his Ohio campaign.

UNCLE SAM'S CONTINUOUS NAVIGATION PLANS

The above shows one of the series of fifty-four dams which the United States Government is erecting in the Ohio river at a cost of $60,000,000 to insure continuous navigation the year around. The completion of Dam No. 37, just below Cincinnati, will be celebrated by the Ohio Valley Exposition from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24.

PERFECT TEXTILE EXHIBIT AT OHIO VALLEY EXPOSITION

Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—Textile manufacturers of the South are showing a decided interest in the coming Ohio Valley Exposition, to be held in this city from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24, and which is designed to exploit the products, resources and industries of the Ohio Valley and the entire South. There is a conviction among the textile manufacturers that their goods have not been sufficiently exploited in this section during the past that the Ohio Valley goes much farther and does not fare as well in securing textiles as it might do if it took advantage of the industries lying practically at its doors. For that reason the Southern textile manufacturers are anxious to make an extraordinary display of their products, which, in every way, at least equal those of other sections of the country farther removed from the Ohio Valley. The display of textiles from the South will be selected by a special committee representing the various railroads of the South and made up of experts who will take every opportunity of making this feature one that will be a credit to the textile industry of America in general, and the Southern manufacturers in particular.

EXPOSITION SECURES NOTED PRIMA DONNA

Will Create Title Role in Popular Romantic Opera.

Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—Contracts have been signed by the terms of which Mme. Bernice de Pasquali, the noted coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, will create the title role in the popular romantic opera which is to be produced in connection with the Ohio Valley Exposition, beginning Aug. 29 and continuing for four weeks. In securing Mme. de Pasquali the Exposition management has succeeded in bringing into the east the leading coloratura soprano of America, she being generally conceded to be the legitimate successor to Mme. Carrelli Semblich in all roles in the Metropolitan's operas, calling for this unique and rather difficult style of work. During the past season Mme. de Pasquali has sung a number of the roles made famous by Mme. Semblich, and in every instance she has been given the highest praise for her magnificent voice, her unusual technique, her dramatic ability and her striking stage presence. Mme. de Pasquali is an American by birth, Boston being her home, and it is in America that much of her musical education was secured. In engaging her for the leading role of the opera, the management is following a plan of making this a purely American production from every point of view. The music is by Pietro Florida, a composer whose works are most favorably known in this country and in Europe. The book is the creation of Paul Jones, a Cincinnati man, who has heretofore been most successful in the writing of dramatic subjects that called for elaborate production. All the roles in the opera will be sung by Americans, while the chorus, numbering several hundred, will be recruited from among the various singing societies and choral organizations of Cincinnati.

DIXIE FRUIT GROWERS TO SEND EXHIBIT

South Preparing to Enter Into Competition With North.

Cincinnati, O.—(Special).—Fruit growers of the South are preparing to enter into active competition with the horticulturists of the North in the matter of displaying their products at the Ohio Valley Exposition to be held in Cincinnati from Aug. 29 to Sept. 24. During the past few years the growing of fruits that were considered largely a northern product has been taken up in the South so that this section now is in a position to get into active competition with its rivals north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers for business along these lines. Particularly in the matter of growing apples is the South fast rapidly to the fore the quantity and quality of this fruit produced in the South showing a decided increase yearly. It is expected that Southern fruit growers will have large exhibits of apples at the Exposition in connection with the general display of Southern products, for which a separate building will be provided.

When Plainfield Boomed

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

For years and years the other inhabitants of the village of Plainfield had spoken of Simple Simon as Simple Simeon. He was an old bachelor and lived alone. He had no opinions on politics or religion; he made his living by working for other folks by the day and by raising crops on his two acres of land. When any one asked why Simeon was simple the only reason given was that he had once been offered $500 for his place and refused to take it.

All of a sudden at a particular date it was discovered that Plainfield had a mineral spring, a pirate's cave and a hill from which an Indian maiden had leaped to her death. Result—a boom; result—the organization of the Plainfield Hotel and Land syndicate. It purchased the crest of Indian Maiden hill one day and set about the erection of a summer hotel the next. Of course property went up—all but Simple Simon's two acres. The land company expected to get that at the same old price when it got around to make the offer. The hotel land and Simple Simon's joined for a distance. When the hotel was completed its southern veranda was within ten feet of the blue in due time, which was when the evasive got good and ready. It offered Simple Simon $400 for the land. He shook his head. Then $500 was offered, and when he refused it he was called an idiot. The hotel opened with another boom. Among its first guests were Professor Chiselhurst and a Mrs. Klipston. He was a naturalist and she a poet. He was a bachelor and she a widow. They took to each other. One July day, when there were sixty-five guests in the hotel and the syndicate was expecting every minute that Simple Simon would call and accept their offer, that individual appeared in front of the south veranda and erected a rude bench. When he had finished the job and departed the professor and the poet descended the steps and sat on the bench to cool. They thought very kindly of Simple Simon for putting in there. Next morning it was noticed that the bench was occupied by two beehives, and the industrious insects could be seen flying in and out as they earned their wages.

Professor Chiselhurst had been anxious to deliver a lecture on natural history. Here was his opportunity. He offered the widow his arm, and the couple walked down the steps and over to the hives. The professor cleared his throat and began to talk. He had a rare, deep, nasal and hoarse voice. It was as if he were talking through a tin can. He stated that the honeybee had been known for 10,000 years. Except used to be fairly swimming in milk and honey until the trust got in and raised the price.

The bees must not be mistaken for the bumblebees. The latter was only a big loafer of a bee, content to sit on the fence all summer and die off at the coming of freezing weather.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen," said the professor as he stepped back, "we come to the hive itself. The beehive is an emblem of industry."

Here the professor, carried away with his enthusiasm, tapped on one of the hives with his cane. The bees responded nobly. They had been interrupted in their industry and now poured forth to see what was up. The first half dozen landed on the naturalist, and as he began to execute a barn dance there was hearty applause from the veranda. The next assortment hit the widow, and everybody was prepared to applaud her when the insects began to come thicker and to look higher, and the circus began. There were shrieks, yells, oaths and a rush for shelter, but a bee can follow where a human being can squeeze through. They followed. They buzzed. They were emblems of industry as well as the hives. Hardly a person in the hotel, from manager down to dishwasher, escaped. It took half a day of smudging and smoking and using brooms and dusters to clear the house, and the guests began to depart with the bees. Inside of two days the last had vanished. The poetess and the naturalist were among the last, and she faced him with swollen eyes and said:

"Professor, what a fool you were to rap on that beehive!"
"Widow, what a silly thing you were to write a poem on bees!" he retorted as he got his mouth open for the first time for hours.

And meanwhile what about Simple Simon? Men had rushed to him and threatened him, but he did not propose to remove them, and they did not go until his two acres had been sold for a thousand dollars and the cash was in his hand. He just grinned and looked simple, and they hurried up to give him his money. When the property was transferred and the industrious bees and their emblems had been pitched into the pond the hotel began advertising for guests. No one responded. It was closed to reopen another season but it still stood empty. It was untenanted today. The boom came and boomed, and then the bottom dropped out. Today the mineral spring still bubbles, and they will point you out the spot where the Indian maiden leaped to her death and where the pirate made his murderous lair, but Plainfield boasts no more. Now and then an inhabitant will wake up to say that Simple Simon was the only fool who made a dollar out of the hives, but he is asleep again by the time you ask for details.
